The enemy were reported to be moving their artillery to their right. In the afternoon slight skirmishing began along the Weldon Railroad. The 5th corps was placed under arms and marched into the breast works. Some deserters came into the works during the day, and said we were to be attacked at four o'clock in the afternoon With the exception of a slight skirmish along the railroad, there was no disturbance. Our men waited with anxious expectation, but no rebels made their appearance. The quiet along the entire front is unaccountable There is something oppressive about it.
